Risk Tolerance Profile

Life Cycle Position:

Through the progression of age, the average individual advances through several investment phases while working towards the financial goal of getting to and then living in retirement. The illustration below diagrams the six different phases of an investor's life cycle based on age and wealth.

In the Accumulation phase, the investor is making contributions to the portfolio in an effort to save for retirement. As time moves closer to that goal, larger relative contributions, as well as market performance and volatility have a significant effect on the portfolio's value.

In the Distribution phase, the investor is taking distributions from the portfolio to fund expenses in retirement. While market volatility is still a factor, a larger focus should be on longevity risk and maintaining a proper allocation to ensure that the investor's assets last throughout retirement.

Question 1:

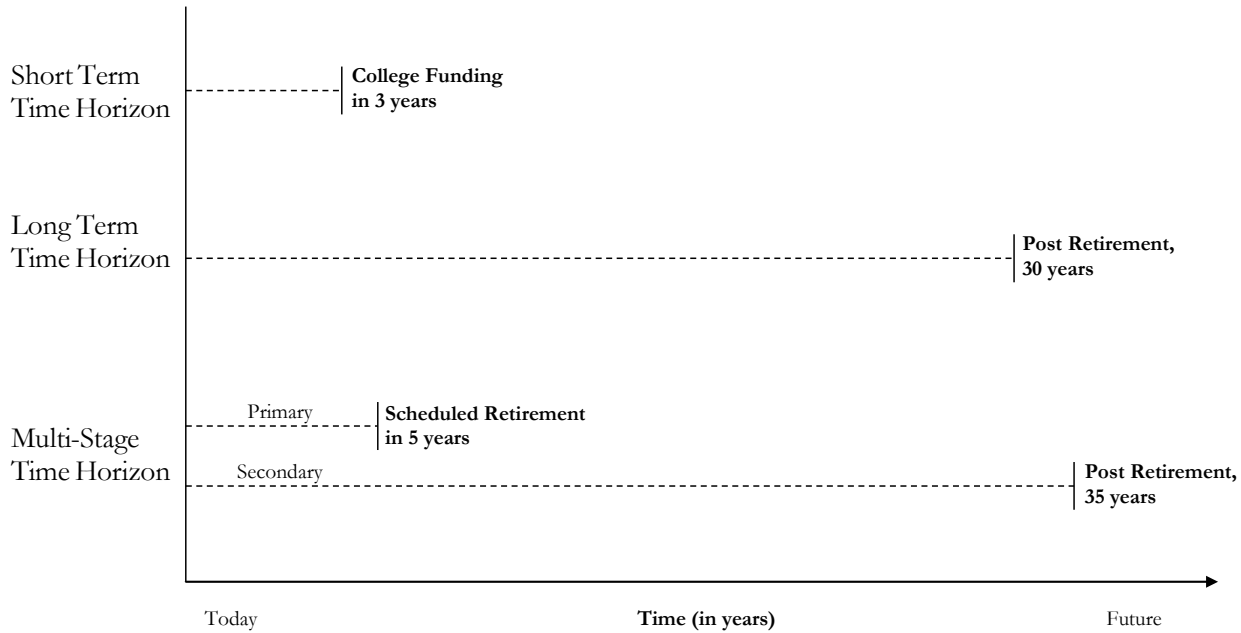

Which phase below best represents your position in the investor life cycle:

- 4 E. Mid Retirement (10 - 20 years into retirement)
- 2 F. Senior Retirement (20 - 30 years into retirement)
